Business History:

Arcangel Protection Services is a South African owned specialist high-risk corporate protection and consulting services company dedicated to providing unrivaled service satisfaction to our clients.

We make use of flexible and tailored solutions especially designed for our unique clientele. With considerable experience in the security industry both locally and internationally, we have been instrumental in some of the largest security operations and developments in South Africa.

Our areas of expertise include high-risk protection, emergency planning, security consulting, disaster management, high profile event security, business and private asset protection as well as personal protection. We work extensively with corporations, governments, embassies and VIPs.

Arcangel was formed to counter the rising threat to high-risk targets (facilities, individuals and events), and the difficulties such clients have when dealing with conventional security providers. We differentiate ourselves in that we adopt a holistic approach to protection, providing a full range of solutions to guarantee the comprehensive care and safety of each client.

Security Personnel:

Paramount to the traits Arcangel demands of each of its personnel includes trustworthiness, reliability and confidentiality. Our strength is in our trained manpower who possess broad industry experience gained in the fields of military, government security, private security and communal security.

Through a combination of strategic execution, rigorous and circumstance- specific planning and unwavering professionalism, the team at Arcangel maintains a mindset of discipline and commitment to purpose. We utilise our industry expertise to provide the sophisticated service necessary for a high-risk market.

To ensure that we remain true to our vision, we invite our clients and prospective clients to witness our training programs. Additionally, employee test results are readily available for viewing.

Professional Services:

With the increase of organised crime in South Africa, advanced and evolving methods of protection are imperative. Arcangel conducts a thorough threat assessment for each individual operation, identifying and assessing risks, specific issues of concern, weak or vulnerable points and other security parameters.

We then implement a strategic solution, optimising the available resources and strategic landscape to the client's benefit. The initial situation assessment is complimentary and all work is conducted in a strictly confidential basis.
