Unit 8

Our Commitment towards Health and safety

There are a lot of workplace incidents experienced in companies due to ever increasing hazards in working sites, these incidents claim a lot of workers' lives, cause great injuries and damages to property, all of which have contributed to a lot of resources and time committed towards compensation of the casualties. This has made companies and employers have a keen interest in matters of Health and safety. As training providers therefore, we have worked out a program in which all our learners regardless of the program under training, they undertake training in health and safety, sessions in which we teach learners on how to identify work related hazards, reporting of these hazards, removing or reducing these hazards and what to do in times of incidents (emergencies).

Throughout the training programs, we emphasize that learners use the Personal Protective Equipments (safety devices) which gives them the ability to use and also get familiarised with using these safety devices.

We also cover an important module in health and safety, that is principles of good house keeping which will empower your workers in matters of removing possible dangers from the working site.

This will not only reduce and remove possible hazards in your organization, but will also improve on productivity of your workforce.

Unit 9

Our Partnerships

Throughout our entirety in this industry, we have developed a working relationship with other legitimate training providers, accredited with different training and learning programs. This working relationship has developed into memoranda of understanding with these organizations which has helped us to offer better training services.

Partnerships have also helped us to widen the scope of training programs offered to our clients because our organizations are accredited with various learning programs by different accrediting bodies.
